

THE AUTUMN BUDDHIST PHILOSOPHY COURSE

- Three-year course starting in March 2022, online and face-to-face
- Spiritual training in the three main Buddhist traditions of Hinayana, Mahayana and Vajrayana
- Two semesters each year of online teachings by Khenpo Ngawang Dhamchoe and guest speakers
- Monthly sessions with Drogmi Buddhist Institute trained and registered mentors
- Specially prepared background readings

This is an incredible chance to study and practise Buddhist philosophy in depth. You will experience how this ancient spiritual knowledge can help you improve all aspects of life including your relationships, work and study.

Taught by Khenpo Ngawang Dhamchoe, a revered teacher with nearly forty years' experience.

Khenpo has a Masters degree and a Loppon degree (equivalent to a PhD) in Buddhist Studies

- Presented in the spirit of 'rime', or non-sectarianism, and open to all who are interested in Buddhist philosophy and practice
- Face-to-face retreats at the end of each semester at Kamalashila Tibetan Buddhist Centre in Tilba, NSW – two days for the first retreat and four days for the second.

Cost: $350 per semester including teachings, mentoring, guest speakers and readings, and $120 per day for retreats, including teachings, accommodation and meals.

For more information or to enrol:

web: www.drogmi.org

email: info@drogmi.org

